INTRODUCTION

Coronavirus disease 2019 (COVID-19), caused by severe acute respiratory syndrome coronavirus 2 (SARS-CoV-2), raises many critical issues in virology and dermatologic care. Addressing these issues is necessary, yet also challenging, because there are few direct data on which to base recommendations [1].

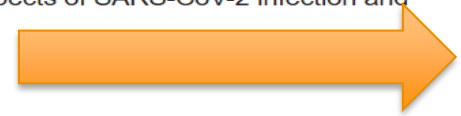

We will discuss issues related to dermatologic care during the COVID-19 pandemic. Other relevant aspects of SARS-CoV-2 infection and management are discussed in detail separately.
